

Hendrix & Handel - Museum

Landmark Buildings - Public work

We were contacted directly by the client for this project. Due to the building being listed, we suggested using surface mounted track lighting to the Handel area of the museum to highlight key displays on the different floors of the house.

Not only did the surface track minimise damage to the ceiling, it also maximised adjustability should the client change the layout of the displays.

We had to ensure the LED lights would not damage the paintings and also not make the spaces feel overly bright.
